Inviting all aspiring girl engineers aged 9 - 12 years old

GirlEng #AskAnEngineer Workshop

Join us as we myth-bust the perceptions and stereotypes around STEM (Science Technology Engineering & Mathematics) careers, and explore the exciting opportunities that exist in the world of engineering. Students will have the opportunity to interact with an engineer and engineering students, participate in a hands-on activity focused on celebrating their individuality and find out more about STEM careers. The GirlEng workshop forms part of WomEng’s global campaign to reach #1MillionGirlsInSTEM.

Saturday, 16/09/2017
Cambridge University, Engineering Department

For more information and to book contact outreach-officer@eng.cam.ac.uk

WomEng, is a multi-award winning, global social enterprise working since 2006 to develop the next generation of women engineering leaders in society. Through its proactive, needs driven bottom-up approach, WomEng has been instrumental in developing strong female engineering talent pipelines. The GirlEng division is focused on creating awareness and providing information to school girls, promoting engineering as a career of choice and breaking perceptions about the industry.